MATTERS OF INTEREST TO WASHINGTON MUSIC LOVERS

The debut of the Washington Symphony Orchestra tomorrow afternoon at the National Theater will undoubtedly prove one of the most important events in the musical history of Washington.

For several years Washington has suffered from the lack of regular orchestral concerts. Organizations have visited this city at intervals, and it became evident from the hearty reception and support given them that the Capital could sustain an orchestra of its own. A canvass was made of the professional talent resident in the city, and it was found that there are more than enough first-class musicians here to make the formation of the orchestra possible. Mr. Reginald de Koven was thought to be the man most fitted to undertake the practical formation, and it is due in a large part to his earnest efforts and untiring energy that a permanent Washington Symphony Orchestra has at last been organized.

The concert tomorrow afternoon will evidence what has been accomplished with only a limited number of rehearsals, and promises the most desirable results for next season, after the orchestra has worked together for a longer period. That so great an artist as Ignace Paderewski should consent to appear on the eve of his departure for Europe is another tribute to the cause, and an evidence of the faith that he places in the ability of the conductor.

Nearly all the prominent society people now in town will be present at the initial concert, so the occasion will be a brilliant social event as well as a musical triumph.

The program will be an unusually interesting one, and will include several notable orchestral composition and piano numbers. It will be as follows:

Overture, "Merry Wives of Windsor".....Nielci
Concerto in E flat for piano and orchestra, op. 21.....Beethoven
Allegro. Adagio—un poco moto. Rondo; Allegro.
Poeme Symphonique, "Dance Macabre".....Saint-Saens
Nocturne, B major, op. 62.....Chopin
Etude, No. 9, op. 25.....Chopin
Two Chants Polonois (Lullaby).....Chopin
Symphony No. 1, "Rustic Wedding".....Goldmark
Moderato molto; Wedding March and Variations.
Allegretto; Bridal Song. Allegro moderato Scherzando; Serenade. Andante; in the Garden. Finale, Allegro molto: Rustic Dance.

The Legion of Loyal Women gave a delightful "at home" last Monday evening, when an entertaining musical program was rendered by several well-known local musicians.

Mr. Arthur E. Frost, a talented violinist with a smooth, even tone and much musical intelligence, played Handel's "Largo" and Hauser's "Wienlied" in excellent style. Mr. Frost also rendered a violin obligato to Nevin's "Mighty Lak a Rose," which was delightfully sung by Mrs. Bert De Yo. Mrs. De Yo also gave Denza's popular composition, "A May Morning." Mr. William D. McFarland, the well-known tenor, sang "Under the Shade of the Sheltering Palms," from "Florodora," and "If I Could Know."

The last of the series of sacred concerts at the Raleigh will be given tonight under the direction of Mr. Jasper Dean McFall.

The concerts have proved a great success during the season, and have been largely attended.

One of the features has been the work of the Schroeder orchestra, which renders its numbers in truly artistic style, and adds much to the success of the recitals. The program which has been prepared for tonight will be as follows:

Grand march from "Tannhauser," Wagner, and "Berceuse" (Jocelyn), Schroeder orchestra; "Gaudemus," Diabelli. Mrs. Gibson, Mr. Barker, Mr. Gibson, Mr. McFall; "To the Angels," Zardo. Mrs. A. Leftwich Sinclair; cello obligato, Miss

The time for the purchase of tickets and packing of grips is nearly at hand, and already hundreds of the thousands of club women who will attend the sixth biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs have engaged by letter or telegram their accommodations in Los Angeles, Cal., and vicinity. The town will be crowded to its utmost capacity with Fiesta visitors, but there will be room for all.

From advices received, one is led to believe that the whole world of club women will arrive in Los Angeles precisely Wednesday afternoon, April 30. Trains will be met by thoroughly instructed aids of the trains and reception committees, and every club woman—recognized by her knot of blue ribbon—will be welcomed and courteously assisted and directed to her destination. Guide books and directory pamphlets giving concisely just the information everyone will be seeking will be handed clubwomen upon arrival, and everything possible done to make them feel "personally conducted" and cared for.

A part of the program of entertainment is the witnessing of the opening parade of La Fiesta, the morning of May 1, also the floral pageant, Friday, May 2. Reserved seats are to be had on the tribunes erected along the line of march.

The regular program for Thursday at Simpson Auditorium includes a meeting of advisory council and board of directors in the morning, addresses of welcome and president's address in the afternoon. The evening will be devoted to a formal reception at the woman's club house. Following the usual custom at such functions, guests will, after greeting the hostesses, distinguished guests of honor and ladies in waiting, find refreshments in the tropical garden of the patio and be at liberty to return to their homes. As four hours will be given to receiving, in this way even the several thousand invited may be comfortably entertained.

Reports of Officers.

Friday, May 2, reports of officers and committees will be heard in the morning, before the adjournment for the floral parade. In the afternoon there will be reports of State presidents and meetings of State delegations. In the evening there will be an address by George Gunton, of New York, on "Associated Progress."

Thompson, Topeka, Kan. Evening: Illustrated musical lecture, "Wagner Festival, Haymuth," Mrs. Charles Rhodes, California.

Excursion to Long Beach.

Wednesday, May 7, there will be an all-day excursion to Long Beach, complimentary to officers, delegates and those on the program, with an opportunity afforded all club women to participate if they desire.

Thursday, May 8, morning: Election of officers. Afternoon: "Industrial Problems," Mrs. Kelly. Evening: Closing exercises. There will also be on this day a memorial service in remembrance of the late Mrs. Croly (Jennie June), who was one of the first organizers of women's clubs, and an honorary vice president of the General Federation, and Mrs. Rebecca Lowe, president, will preside. Speeches will be made by Mrs. Wilbur and Mrs. Caroline Severance, of Los Angeles, who has recently been made an honorary vice president of the General Federation. This service will be impressive and a high ceremonial; it will close with the singing of the national hymn, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," standing.

There are other good things promised which are not shown on the foregoing program. Saturday, May 3, Mrs. Margaret Hamilton Welch will speak upon "Literature." Monday, Mrs. Frederick Schaff, Philadelphia, president of the National Federation of Mothers, upon "Juvenile Court Laws." Wednesday evening, Charles F. Lummus, of Los Angeles, upon "The Highway of the Mission." Friday there will be reports from foreign clubs, including Western Australia, Santiago, South America, the London Pioneer Club, Hawaiian Islands, India and other far-away places.

A special thought has been given to visiting members of the press, and a press bureau will be established for their benefit.

Entertainments of Mr. and Mrs. Westinghouse. Features of the Social Week—Farewell Dinner of Secretary Long on the Dolphin to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and Members of the Cabinet Circle—New York Society at the Wadsworth Supper and Dance.

The last week owed no little of its social activity to Mr. and Mrs. Westinghouse, who were hosts at several large dinners, as well as the reception that closed their spring visit to their Washington home.

Another very delightful happening for those invited was the farewell dinner given by the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Long on the Dolphin, when the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and Members of the Cabinet Circle—New York Society at the Wadsworth Supper and Dance.

The annual dinners which Secretary Long has given on board the Dolphin are reminiscent of delightful incidents that were not a feature of the usual Cabinet banquet in honor of the President and his wife. For instance, it has been told by that gossip "little bird" that we all know about, that Mr. Roosevelt and the grave and learned statesmen who form his official family, took to themselves partners and danced the oldtime Virginia reel to the merry fiddling of a Dolphin tar. It may not be true, of course; interesting things so seldom are, but it makes a pleasant story.

A DELIGHTFUL COTILLION.

Mr. W. R. Travers, of New York, Entertains Miss Wadsworth.

New York society was conspicuously represented at the supper and dance given last night in honor of Miss Wadsworth by her uncle, Mr. William R. Travers, of New York.

The house of Colonel Augustus Tyler, 1644 I Street, which is at present the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Preston, of New York, was placed at the disposal of Mr. Travers, who is their guest. It was artistically though not elaborately decorated with spring flowers and palms for the cotillion, which was led by Mr. Craig Wadsworth. The favors were both pretty and unique.

The ballroom, which is one of the most attractive in Washington, was polished like a mirror, and the furnishings were white and gilt.

The guests, both at the supper and dance that followed, included Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lorillard, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gordon Norrie, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lippincott, Mr. and Mrs. L. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boliver, Mr. and Mrs. George McChesney, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Simpkins, Miss Alice Roosevelt, the Countess Cassini, Miss Buchanan, the Misses Warden, Miss Edith Wetmore, Miss Wallach, Miss May, Miss Poor, Miss Grossman, Signor Riano, Major McCawley, Mr. E. H. Bulkeley, Mr. George Heilen, Mr. A. de Navarro, Mr. Davis, Mr. O. H. P. On Tuesday also, General Breckenridge will honor the Sons of the American Revolution. Cambon, the wife of the French ambassador, at a reception for which M. Cambon has issued invitations.

After a short stay here, Dr. and Mrs. Goodman will visit the leading Eastern cities before sailing abroad. Dr. Edward E. Morse, of this city, who was a fellow student with Dr. Goodman some years ago in Dublin, and who acted as best man at the wedding, has also returned to Washington.

Though the invitations to the ceremony were limited to the near relatives of the bride and bridegroom, there were more than 100 persons present. None of Dr. Goodman's family came from England, and nearly all the guests were of the Clay name.

Colonel Clay's home was lavishly decked with flowers for the occasion. The west
